The parties were married in Salt Lake City, Aug. 19, 1903.

SENT TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL. Three small boys, Leo Freshwater, withdrew his answer and cross-complaint. The testimony of the plaintiff and several other wit-lesses was taken which went to care for his wife and family as he would have done. A decree of divorce and Elmer Archbold, aged 9, were com mitted to the industrial school yesterday, by Judge Booth. The boys were sent up from Justice Noon's court, where they had entered a plea of guil-ty to stealing some school supplies from was granted the wife, but the minor said, Virginia Costello, was awarded the father by stipulation that she should be placed in a good school in the Procter academy. The court heard statements from Rev. S. H. Goodwin, principal of the academy, and from Messrs. Freshwater and Archbold, patents of the boys, which were to the offect that the children were incorrigible, and unavailing efforts had been mong Ogden's most prominent young made by the parents to control them. Mr. Freshwater, however, was of the opinion that the Industrial school was not a good place to send small boys, as he believed, from report and from as he believed, from report and from observation, they learned much additional evil from their association with other bad boys in the school. COUNTY SEAT AGITATION.

Improving Mantl's Water System-Mr. And Mrs. G. A. Iverson Lose Infant,

Special Correspondence. Manti, Sanpete Co., Oct. 27.-Manti's water system is being greatly improved under the direction of Mayor L. R. Anlerson. For some years, owing to the madequacy of the flow of spring water it the system's sourse, it has been neessary to use a quantity from the anyon creek, a condition which has not been altogether satisfactory. However the work now being done by the city will obviate that as a splendid flow is being had, enough to abundantly supply the people with the high-est quality of pure, spring water.

COUNTY SEAT AGITATION. The people of Manti are fully awake in the matter of the proposed removal of the county seat to Ephraim. Every precinct in Sanpete county is being visited and sentiment created for its retention at Manti. Several thousand copies of an address to the voters and taxpayers have been sent out, presenttaxpayers have been sent out, present-ing data which will materially add to the enlightenment of the people. There is very little danger of moving the county seat, and it will undoubtedly be found that on election day the action will be overwhelmingly in favor of Manti, the pioneer city of Sanpete valley, and one of the historically interest-ing cities of the state.

SCHOOLHOUSE BURNED DOWN

Practically a Total Loss of School and Church Furnishings.

Special Correspondence. Desert Lake Emery Co., Oct. 24.-This morning the people of this little village were alarmed by the cry of fire, and they rushed from their homes to find that the school house was on fire. The fiames started in the ceiling, where the pipe goes through to the roof. The janitor was still/in the room, but before help could reach the spot, the angry flames were leaping far above the tall trees, which surrounded the school. The house was built of lumber, and lined inside, and the main room was wall papered as well. The whole of it burned like a torch, for within a yery few moments the house

So speedy were the flames that only four benches could be saved. The school was well furnished and supplied with all sorts of books, charts, benches, maps and pictures, and sta-tionery, in fact with all that the school needed for the year. Only last night about $78 worth of furniture and sup-plies were placed in the house, and it was intended to grade the school this morning and start it off in good shape. The teachers are M. J. Blackburn of Desert Lake, principal, and Miss Ruby Fitt of Orangeville as primary in-

The people prided themselves on having a nice schoolhouse and took much pains to make it attractive. The children as well as the parents reverenced the house, and all thought it about the only redeeming feature of the little lown. It was almost heart-breaking to see the people standing in little crowds watching the meeting and schoolhouse o save scarcely a thing. Organ, fur-niture, records and all it contained are gone. The children expressed their sorrow in both words and tears, for the oss of their cherished hope of the best school year they had ever seen.

This house gone leaves us without a place to assemble. The people are, however, stout hearted and meet the adversity caimly, determined to make the best of the situation.

A meeting of the people was called at 2 p. m. where they decided to carry on the school as near to the former plans as possible. The trustees have secured a house in which the school may be held. The lack of books, school suplies and furniture, is the greatest immediate drawback, but teachers as well as students and parents seem willing to make the best of it and get along as best they can.

The losses are estimated between $1,500 and $2,000.
